

Alembic

Mattia Mascarello

CC BY-SA 4.0 2022 Mattia Mascarello

Distributed under the “Attribution-ShareAlike 4.0 International \(CC BY-SA 4.0\)” license

Poems by Mattia Mascarello

Anywhere the wind blows

Current Edition: August 2022

Mattia Mascarello,
Alba (CN), Italy
mattia.mascarello@outlook.it Github Telegram

Thanks to all of my friends.

Preface

My stream of thought is stored in this container as I progress to read it Essentially, a collection

Table of Contents

1	Cogs	1
2	Parcel	2
3	Rolls	3
4	Friction	4
5	Machines	5
6	OK	6
7	Masters of Doubt	7
8	Second Line	8
9	Steam	9
10	Imaginary	10
11	Sweden	11
12	Contempt	12
13	Resonance	13
14	Beat	14
15	Walk	15
16	Act	16
17	Bell	17
18	Blue	18
19	Red	19
20	Casino	20

21 War	21
22 Trees	22
23 Violet	23
24 Reflection	24
25 Smile	25
26 Tear	26
27 Void	27
28 Dust	28
29 Buyeth	29
30 Gates	30
31 Sweat	31
32 Tin	32
33 Stereo	33
34 Alley	34
35 Light	35
36 Explode	36
37 Again	37
38 Flow	39
39 Night	40
40 The backrooms	41
41 Cointainerland	42
42 Stormy light, Permanently night	43
43 Feedom standings	44
44 Sliding Doors	45
45 Boys?	46

Cogs

Cogs of Ice

Tick and Slide

Subdivide the Time in Time

Slow or steady to demise

Who shall melt and who shall dance

On the thin floor of life?

Parcel

Wherever may I find my body wandering and where I lay my hand

A lone and unknown land
Just follows me and never leaves Oh when has this begun?

To them I say let there be a land I know and love and not the parcel nature gave to spare with me alone.

Rolls

An old typewriter lies on the desk Rolls of types and rolls of life the impression of a hot coffee on a cloudy morning and the prints of a dead hand.
Oh young age, regret and retribution
The keys' noise covers my thought and the noise that I bear inside.

Friction

Friction

Friction

Metal scraping

Glass beheading

Where we're heading?

Sleep and tick and turn and twist and walk and sit, for what?

Desist?

Your calculations

fail.

Machines

Polygons of vision
A field of empty vectors
Directed to imperfection Escape your judgment Machines of flesh
Which make machines
For this you see
'tis what thee be.

OK

Ok

Why?

OK

What does it mean?

What do you mean?

This is ridiculous

Ok

The alarm is sounding

Ok

For well you see the waste this all be

O

K.

Masters of Doubt

Do you feel good?
Do you feel fine?
What must be word
that you make so flag of yourself
When you proceed
To bury the dead.

Second Line

Buffer of thought Distilled and saw
It keeps bouncing inside
Until you drown it in fire.

Steam

Steam, fire, electricity
Some machines feed on it Some machines die on it All walk on the ribbon
It goes extremely wide.

Imaginary

Flow
Fly
In the sky
Slowly tired
Not explored anything Neither being admired
But still
You may try.

Sweden

What shall say thee?

2418

Walk to the beam

Shines so lightly

Moves so brightly

When you'll think then

Don't complain me

For what I see

Is the most wide sea.

Contempt

Acknowledge it!
Acknowledge it yourself
The forces that behind you are pushing your contempt You see someone up there but no-one but yourself You think the freest free is what the heat has quickly fled No intention to assimilate let alone to adjudicate The superstructure of your thought is laid upon bones.

Resonance

Glaring eyes to the public you notice something:
an entity which resonates the same frequency as you Be sure as well to keep in phase that's what you're going to do because if not you know that, too you'll cancel whole in two.

Beat

Beat him! No, don't despair There's always a second place for losers, that's hell
Beat her!
Look at your foe in the eyes
You might both as well call it a tie For in this fight the only winner is who doesn't cry.
Was that anytime?
Well, everyone stops fighting when they die.

Walk

Walk downtown, looking around
The movement, the sound
The rubble on the ground changing slowly chaining
Men walking in the snow
Where do they go?
What do they know?
A solitary chimney
Is coughing up some smoke
You sit on the edge of the plane Which separates from them all.

Act

A close call It's ringing
You might as well pick up your phone Oh, look, it's your friend He's asking what you've done Interact is all you do, It flows inside everyone and all What did you make of it?

Bell

Rain and Snow

Outside a shell of shells

So while outside it's cold as hell

You ring the bell, for dinner's served

However don't rejoice so much because you it's not for you to know what then you'll tell.

Blue

Looking in the eyes
the broadcast just begun for there's some connection which requires no waveform oscillators dance, that's sure but what might they do when the only station I am tuning in is you.

Red

What Irony of a substance, powering such squalor mess of cogs and sweat
But when the oil leaks
the pain deceives
that friction's gone.

Casino

Wait

This game is rigged!

What did you expect?

Someone's gonna have to finance heaven and hell.

War

Go away and come command sustain engage and train terrain
TERRAIN
TERRAIN!

Trees

Hands in air fog is there dark and light
all perspires
when you're there.

Violet

Violet, light blue you know the address, too
the corners of the world are shining there for you.
Even when your soul denies you're bound by what's outside.

Reflection

Eyes stare at eyes
The same soul inside yet shall we say we feel afraid, insane.

Smile

A symble of smiles, emerged from what seemed like crying.
Despair may be a pretty fun affair.

Tear

Tear, torn, cut apart select your product from the list
a little scalpel may fix that but what lays on the floor is hard to reattach

Void

Beyond black beyond white beyond cubes
beyond lights beyond love beyond lies it's not just what hearth and mind deny it's what thy were and thy shall be.

Dust

Writings on a wall a tree and its snow

What achievement do you keep in your mind and in your soul?

Many speakers of all minds fly and dance will tonight

While the dust settles inside.

Buyeth

To everybody's contempt today is the event
The day when you must pay for the uncherished bliss we all have been denying before it was taken by fire.

Gates

Bad, unjust war and lust we shall decide what you be must Dancing as a dancer
Sleeping as a sleep
Heat,
speeding cars,
metal and wooden planks Your nature shall not stand where we not demand.

Sweat

Brick and bells
On which an old man leans Not tired by age, but by life's appeal For who lives in a dream is sleeping and thus he's keeping his life of sweat.

Tin

Laying on a bed in a late early after noon
The pitch black and the tense muscles
The will to grip to the comfy cushion yet the urge to act
The incessant
time awaits one's alarm.
Laying inert like tin battles with the soul
Until one wins on his own terms

Stereo

The downhill pipe
all leaks and all flows jets and steamy puffs shielded and shivering break and set fire collide and deny barricade
Don't fade, don't regret admire desire but rageous be against the passage of the time.
Flames shall be your soul and your touch shall be fire.
Intertia and hiding
only stack yourself
up your back.

Alley

Shelf

void and book and shelf and laughter and cry and joy and pain throughs books and shelves to read the mess away, far away
it tangles in itself.

Light

Good little sky
the bruising of the night is silent and shy you flucutate over the land of the tired which all contend.

Oh, apprehend the solitary smoke which comes from the fire which burns in the pond of tomorrow's light.

And when the vastness open their eyes do not deny the burns of light.

Explode

Time washes streaming through mind and soul to cleanse the bowl to which it fails, it does again, the rage subdues, the sight restrains in the vast field of which we are made.

Again

Calmly and slowly methodically inquiring perfecting, note-taking the plain of life is the battle field on which the players move their little plastic figures
Again and again
On the brink of war
You never truly wash them away
For they come in waves, back and forth
The stasis long, but the tempest strong Irrupts in your home and shatters it in tiny cardboard pieces
Again and again
So you walk alone in a calm windy night chill for your hands but not enough for your soul and whatever path you choose you swing your arms and you speed your pace to outrun and trick the rain, but through the intricacies of life in spite of reason and disdain the painful drops fall through the ground to be collected in your veins And all the parties you chill at all the calls you pick up or dial in each keystroke

each click consumes the sky
in which you walk
in this sunny night.
Again and Again.

Flow

Bitter and toxic may well be the sweet relief
to occam's seam.
You hug on your sofa
the insanity of a morning coffee which just left you alone in a puddle of mud after much tribulation and desperate objectives you're happy, sad, relieved, deceived it is enough to let the flow spill on the ground at sunset's noon.

Night

I am alone under a night sky with empty eyes, a deafening silence,
and a cold face
bleeding in the pond of my life knives contend the supper chimes.

The backrooms

Here are the backrooms
again.

The palpable shadow
just melts in thin air.

The vortex of people that fly here and there.

The flicker of the neon lights gets

in the soul

and all is rare

in the empty void

I hare

but never move.

Cointainerland

An industrious shipyard in a lonely field behind a modest platform suddues the sight
as the hot metal travels in the windows and scrapes away the thoughts of a moist summer day spent on a plastic seat.

Stormy light, Permanently night

It's day.

And I won't do anything.

The metal cuts the sky.

And I shan't do anything.

It's permanently night.

Would I do anything?

Souls rain by an upper bridge, on a stormy city train.

Would I still do anything?

They're blending or they might.

And I should do anything?

A boat is sailing by all the symbols that inspire.

Here is not all alike.

I shall do anything.

Tonight.

No time.

Freedom standings

The sparkling taste of the august air conditioning
in a sweet-sour mall.

Raves the human fire in ice freest touches humanity whenstone and fire itself.

What freedom is the one to void itself?

Ethics class in a fancy hotel while the metal clangs crushing the human flesh under a green sky. The mirrors hurt it Glass breaks apart in the fashionable ideological parade.

Where do you stand?

Sliding Doors

Sliding doors
slide slaying time laying down
the evil soul they lie but retain when they slide in your face.
Nevermind.

Boys?

The blushing heat of the soul when the hugs touch the sky and the night dwindles by and burns the eyes of death and kisses the fresh grass that grows inside my, my.